Some time ago an Ordinance was passed absolutely suppressing Secret Societies-with a provise for exemp. tion in certain cases—the Societies simed at being the Chinese organisations. The Ordinance did not pass unopposed. The members of Council were of opinion that the Societies, however objectionable they might be from one point of "Molly Bawn," "Phyllis," "The Duchess," &c. view, nevertbeless performed some useful functions, and that their total suppression was altogether too drastic a measure. The New Oriental Bank Corporation, Limited, for Governor, Sir CECIL SMITH, when asked what he was going to put in place of these organisations, replied "Nothing." His Extions for a Chinese Advisory Board have now been issued. This Board is to consist of not more than eighteen members to be nominated by the Governor, viz :- not more Glensagles, from London, left Singapore on the than six Hokkiens, five Techius, 1 wo Can- 2nd and is due here on the 8th inst.; also that, her husband baving been so effectually blighted. tonese, two Khehs, two Hailams, and the Protector of Chinese. A number of coffers, containing 31,000 gold and silver Spanish pieces of the year 1,666, have been brought out of the sea near the island of Andres. Six bronze cannon were found near the coffers, so it is supposed that the whole came from the wreck of a Spanish man-of-war.

The largest sailing ship in the world is said o be owned by France, and on account of this distinction in size is named the France. The France is a vessel with five masts, on four of which square sail is carried. She is 34ft. long, with a beam of 49ft. She will carry no less than 61,000 tons of cargo. The ship herself is built of steel, her masteland yards being also of the same material. It is at present intended that the France will trade been France and the

A story is going the rounds which is too good o be buried in the oblivion of the country press At a London West-End reception one of the greatest of our living notresses was reciting a story, in thirteen verses, describing amongst other things the agony of a maiden who is watching her lover struggling with death in the turbid waters of a torrent beneath her feet. The maiden's cry. "Help! help!" was so realistically rendered that the army of footmen and waiters downstairs thought the house was on fire, and came rushing up with buckets of water and hand grenades to put it out!

A cure was effected, so The Indiarabber Journal is told, by the use of a dvusmo, a few days ago, at Westgate-on-Sea. Mr. E. Brown was fitting a false bottom to a grate, and while chipping it to make it fit, a very small splinter iron flew off and struck the man in the eye. well-known electrical engineer of Westgate (Mr Storr), meeting the man, and hearing of the accident, took him to the dynamo, which was then running at his establishment. Brown blaced his eye as close as possible to the machine, when it was found that the magnetic attraction was sufficiently intense to withdraw the splinter of and the man is now perfectly well and at work Marriageable Princesses are in short supply and are quoted firm. here are eighteen marringeable Princes in immediate succession to thrones, counting King Milan of Servia and Prince Pedro of Brazil. To meet this demand here are ninoteen spinster Princesses and one cold there are plenty of younger sons who, of for the moment is the Czarewitch. There is young to marry yet." The moral is, that if you like to have a wide choice in wives it is better not to be the heir to a throne.

There is a sleeping girl now at Alaincourt, in the Department of the Oise, in France, who is favours the extensive use of foreign methods in Boulevard Charner, which is now filled up again, likely to puzzle the physicians. Her slumber is is worked into a great thoroughfare, which is | not that of one in a peaceful trance, but is agi ated like that of a person under the influence of a nightmare, or the "blues." For the past nine days she has been plunged into this strange somnolency, during which she sometimes beats herself on the head and breast and utters incoherent and unintelligible exclamations. Bouil lon is now and then poured down her throat when she opens her mouth, and by this means she is kept alive. The girl, who is twenty years old, and a farm-servant, has had brief fit of drowsine s before, but none of them lasted so long as that in which she is plunged at present? The local dectors are completely nonplussed by this strage case, and expect that the unnatural sleep will be followed by death.

An old soldier, gin-soaked and garrulous, was Butak Land. Samatra, gives the following in the habit of frequently dropping into the saucture of an editor and pestering him with stories about his old campaigns and battles. One day he came just as the editor was in the bustle of "going to press," and with the generous but ill-timed desire of giving information for an article on modern warfare. He laid a map on the desk and proceeded to point out upon it the various positions in a battle in which he had taken part. The Pittsburg Disputch tells a story to the effect that while Fanny Davenport was playing in engagement in that town recently, a young man who was a clerk at the Union Depot Poled after a rather lively priming with the boys, want to the Opera House. He was a good-to king fellow with a black monstache, and the figure he cut that night was given colour by his new light overcoat and highsilk hat. By the timehe reached the theatre it was pretty full; so was he. But he bought a ticket for a parquet scat right down in to achieve greatness by carving their names in front, and with tolerably steady steps he made capital letters on all sorts of conspicuous places. his way to it. It was in the middle of a scene. This particular specimen was a woman, and she What the play was I don't remember. As be reached the scat and was divesting himself of his loud overcoat, Fanny Davenport came down the stage to the footlights and said to the vilstory goes) and directed her to cease with such lain, who was courting her, but with her eyes to the audience: "I can never love thee!" said it with great emphasis, and the handsome hotel clark rose from his seat, took up his hat Here is the report of a conversation between and overcoat, and saying in loud voice, "Well, London theatrical manager and one of that settles it !" retraced his steps up the aisle.

has never been heard of since. So the potters gentlemen as a profession is that they are clannish and apt to be conceited. They don't like to be beaten at their own trade by outsiders who have never studied medicina. They therefore pay, by their frequent failures, the penaltyof refusing instruction unless the teacher bears their own "Hall Mark."-An eminent physician-Dr. Brown-Sequard, of Paris—states the fact accurately when he says: "The medical profession are so bound up in their self-confidence and conceit that they allow the diamond truths of science to be picked up by persons entirely outside their ranks."

We give a most interesting incident, which linstrates this important truth. The steamship "Concordia," of the Donaldson ine, sailed from Glasgow for Baltimore in 887, having on board as a fireman a man named Richard Wade, of Glasgow. He had been a fireman for fourteen years on various ships sailing to America, China, and India. He had borne the hard and exhausting labour, and had been healthy and strong. On the trip we now name he began for the first time to feel weak and ill. His appetite failed, and he suffered from drowsiness, heartbarn, a bad taste in the nouth, and costiveness and irregularity, of the boweis. Sometimes when at work he had attacks of giddiness, but supposed it to be caused by the heat of the fire-room. Quite often he was sick and felt like vomiting, and had some pain in the head. Later during the passage he grew worse, and when the ship reached Halifax he was placed in the Victoria General Hospital. and the ship sailed away without him. The house surgeon gave him some powders to stop the vomiting, and the next day the visiting physician gave him a mixture to take every four hours. Within two days Wade was so much worse that the doctors stopped both the powders fireman getting worse and worse. Then came another doctor, who was to be visiting physician for the next fit months. He gave other medicines, but not much relief. Nearly all that time Wade suffered great torture; he digested nothing, throwing up all he ate. There was terrible pain in the bowels, burning heat in the throat, heartburn, and racking headache. The patient was now taking a mixture every four hours, powders one after each meal to digest the food, operating pills one every night, and temperature pills two each night to stop the cold sweats. If drugs could oure him at all. Richard had an idea that he took enough to do it. But on the other hand pleurisy set in and the doctors took ninety. -ounces of matter from his right side, and then told him he was sure to die. Five months more rolled by, and there was another Change of visiting physicians. The new one gave Wadea mixture which he said made him tremble like a

At this crisis Wade's Scotch blood asserted tself. He refused to stand any more dosing, and told the doctors that if he mut die he could die as well without them as with them. By this time a cup of milk would turn sour on his stomuch, and lie there for days. Our friend from Glasgow was like a wreck on a shoal, fast going to pieces. We will let him tell the rest of his experience in the words in which he communicated it to the press. He says: "When I was in this state a lady whom I had never seen came to the hospital and talked with me. She proved to be an angel of mercy, for without her I should not now be alive. She told me of a medicine called ' Mother Seigel's Carative Syrup,' and brought me a bottle next day. I started with it, without consulting the doctors, and in only a few days' time was out of bed calling for ham and eggs for breakfast. From that time, keeping on with Mother Seigel's great remedy, I got well fast, and was soon able to leave the hospital and come home to Glasgow. I now fool as if I was in another world, and have no illness of any kind."

The above facts are calmly and impartially stated, and the reader may draw his own conclusion. We deem it best to use no names, although Mr. Wade gave them in his original deposition. His address is No. 244, Stoboross Street, Glasgow, where letters will reach him. 2544--3₁
